

I started using Avar & Company approximately 17 years ago after my accountant had been giving me grief in responding to my business needs and clocking up Fees which bore no resemblance to the size and the amount of work for my then small business.

Changing over to Avar was an extreme smooth exercise and my business, Financial and tax needs have been serviced with consideration having due regard to the size of by business.

When the economic climate became harsh, some time ago, I even left Avar in search of a smaller and a cheaper firm. But to my surprise the other accountancy firms I came into contact with were totally unprofessional and to my amazement, proved much more costly than Avar had ever been.

I returned to Avar because they offer such an efficient and professional service.

I have regular contact, receive continuous advice and my business is now running much more efficiently. All the staff members are friendly and I always feel I am receiving a personal service.

Several members of my family also use Avar after my personal recommendation and are extremely happy for the introduction

I still recommend friends and family to Avar because I have found no other accountancy can match their service.
